Superintendent
B.S., Ohio Northern University
M.S., in Education,
University of Akron

Working in cooperation with the Board of Education and in close relationship with faculty, parents, and the public, is Mr. E.R. Malone, superintendent of schools. Among his varied tasks are those of hiring school personnel and planning the academic curriculum.

Assistant Superintendent, Mr. Charles Ballinger, oversees curriculum planning, instruction, and reviewing of texts.

Keeping up with the quantities of office work necessary for maintaining the six North Canton schools is the job of Mrs. Pearl W. Brown.

The Principal's Office Coordinates Intellectual, Social Progress

Mr. H. Wayne Russell, the principal of Hoover High School, is the coordinator between students, parents, and administration. Student placement, faculty supervision, and class scheduling are among the diversified duties of Mr. Russell. Responsibility for the intellectual and social progress of the school rests with him.

Miss Mabel L. Studer, serving as secretary to the principal, takes charge of correspondence, student records, athletic eligibilities, and working permits. Her long-time efficient assistance in the main office has enabled daily school life to run smoothly.

The Guidance Counselors Interpret And Direct Student Ability

MRS. PAULINE KOLP
Guidance Office Secretary

As head of the guidance department of Hoover, Mr. Richard Armstrong and Mrs. JoAnn Palmer use testing programs and private conferences to interpret the ability of each student. The guidance department offers information on numerous college programs and admission procedures, while at the same time offering aid in seeking vocational careers or work opportunities.

Mrs. Pauline Kolp, guidance office secretary, takes charge of filing student forms, records, and transcripts.

Mrs. Palmer gives a student important college information.

Our librarians have stocked the high school library with hundreds of books to assist each student and promote learning in every possible way. Many new books have been obtained this year through the aid of Title II of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. This is a five-year program to provide additional learning materials, especially library books and research materials.

Head Librarian, Mrs. Martha Hammack, and Assistant, Mrs. Marian Millar, along with student librarians, seek to provide students with the best library service possible.

The English Department Perfects The Art Of Communication

No one can afford to be unable to communicate. For this reason, the English classes of Hoover High are important to everyone.

The ability to read deeply for meaning and the ability to write well and correctly, are the basic skills emphasized in freshman and sophomore classes. As juniors, the students study more deeply the history of American literature. In the senior year, the student looks into the literature of England.

Besides the general English courses, several more specialized courses are offered. Speed reading enables a student to read more rapidly and retain more of what he has read. Business English concerns the proper methods of writing business communications.

Experience Prepares Journalism Students For Future Work

Journalism classes received practical application of journalistic methods by producing the monthly school newspaper, the Viking Views. Students whirled into action after absorbing the basics of newspaper production: newswriting, feature writing, copyreading, proofreading, layout, and journalistic terms.

Besides newspaper production, students also learned about printing methods, advertising, public relations, photography, personal interviews, and all facets of mass media.

The functions of the various presses and copy machines were illustrated by tours through our school library, print shop and the Canton Repository.

Journalism students this year entered a safe-driving essay contest and a T.B. essay contest to further put their writing ability into practice. As the final project of the year, journalism students submitted advertising sales campaigns to sell a product to their adviser.

The language department offers courses in Latin, German, and French. Latin provides a sound basis in grammar and builds the English vocabulary. It also offers insight into the Roman culture which influenced Western civilization.

The study of the modern languages sharpens the student's perception of the human mind and allows him to compare different modes of thought and expression. Students at Hoover are aided in their study of French or German by the language laboratories in which they can hear and imitate native speakers.

Art Classes Foster Creativity

Students in the art department have a chance to be creative by using their talents not only on assigned work, but also on individual projects. Classroom work centers around sketching, painting, and modern design.

Many students have shown an interest in learning styles of lettering, and some have tried their hand at sculpture. One of the projects in the spring was the design and preparation of advertising layout, done in conjunction with the journalism department.

The art classes decorate their own showcase, the bulletin board, and the lobby at Christmas.

Music, Universal Language, Provides Entertainment And Education

Soprano voice class aims for a high note.

Music is known as the universal language. Mr. Martin Alexander heads Hoover's vocal music department consisting of Freshman Chorus, Girls' Glee Club, Sophomore Mixed Chorus, and A Cappella Choir. Mr. John E. Hafer leads the cadet band and concert band, and Mr. Rader conducts the orchestra.

In addition to participation in a performing group, music students may choose to take individual music lessons, voice classes, or music theory.

For the first time this year, Hoover served as host for the Annual Solo and Ensemble Contest on March 4. Also on the schedule were seasonal concerts, band concerts, and a fall concert including the orchestra.

Math Sharpens Logic And Reasoning

A four-year course in mathematics is available as part of the curriculum at Hoover. Shop math, business arithmetic, general math, algebra, geometry, and trigonometry are various math courses which are specifically designed to be of value to the student in later life. A basic knowledge of mathematical logic and reasoning will aid any student in his career.

Biology, the study of botany and zoology, means much more than this to a second-year science student. Biology includes the study of digestive, reproductive, circulatory, nervous, and respiratory systems of the simplest creatures to the most complex.

In the laboratory, the student is introduced to new equipment, but he soon learns to manipulate it with ease. Here he is able to see the animal and plant life he hears about in lecture. The hours he spends at a microscope or with a scalpel, bring him to a deeper awareness of life around him.

Chemistry Employs The Scientific Method In Both Lecture And Lab

The third year science student finds himself involved in chemistry, for he is soon brought face to face with test tubes, Bunsen burners, pipettes, and a various assortment of ominous chemicals.

In the lecture, the student is introduced to quantatative and qualitative analysis, organic and inorganic substances, oxidation-reduction reactions, and properties of gases and solids around him. In the laboratory, his lecture materials are put into use and a deeper awareness of his surroundings results. The climax of laboratory work is the unit involving qualitative analysis.

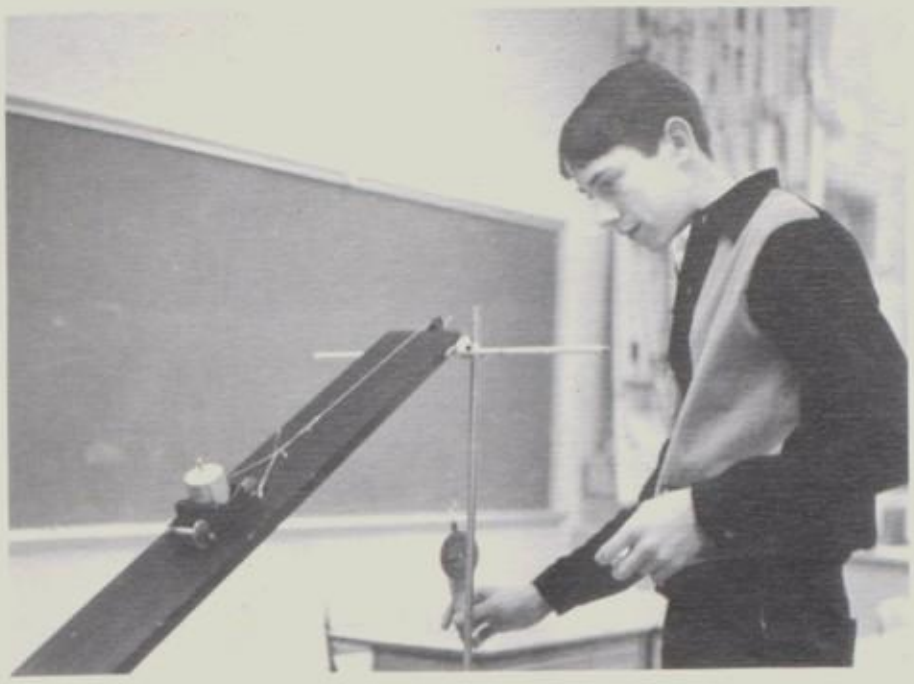
Physics Provides A Study Of Fundamental Laws And Their Theory



Physics students study the effects of forces on weights.

There are two courses offered to the fourth-year science student. Practical physics provides a survey of the fundamental laws of electricity, sound, and machines. The PSSC course, developed by the Physical Science Study Committee of the National Science Foundation, concerns itself with the theory of laws. Supplemented by outside reading and a variety of movies, this course offers a deeper understanding of physics.

Both courses use the laboratory to clarify and broaden the information given in lecture, and the equipment varies from simple soda straws to complex electrical apparatus.

Humanities Explore Civilization

A knowledge of the histories and governments of countries is imperative for a good citizen. Thus several rewarding and informative courses are offered to the social science student. World history traces civilization from the early beginnings of man to our modern day.

Home Economics Readies Girls for Careers as Homemakers

Preparation for a career as a homemaker begins as freshman and sophomore home economics students learn the fundamentals of cooking and sewing. Going beyond the bare essentials of cooking, the course teaches meal-planning and table-setting. In the same way, the sewing course does not end with following a pattern; it covers fashion and accessories.

Juniors begin more detailed study as they learn about interior design and home nursing. The senior course goes into the various aspects of family living, such as marriage, the family, and childcare. The highlights of the senior year are the units on cake-decorating and preparation for marriage including the engagement, selection of china and silverware, the wedding ceremony, and the honeymoon.

Cake decorating skills are perfected in senior Home Ec. classes.

Daily practice on the keyboard adds to the typist's speed and agility.

Preparation for a career in industry and offices is the concern of the business department. Typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping are necessary for an efficient secretary. Students learn to prepare business letters and forms, take and transcribe dictation, and balance books.

In office and secretarial practice, students learn to apply these skills to office situations.

The Industrial Arts Introduce Vocational Skills To Students

Progressing from the basics to the more complicated problems, students achieve industrial skills. Ninth grade students explore the fundamentals of woodwork, electricity, and metal work. Courses in the tenth grade consist of the basic procedures of printing and drawing. Following these courses, students advance to the more complicated and technical skills of woodworking, drawing, printing, electricity and metal work.

Those studying woodworking develop skills in the use of tools and materials by planning and completing individual projects. Metalwork students learn to operate basic machine tools and perform hand operations. The rebuilding of one cylinder gasoline engines intrigues student mechanics.

Physical Education Strengthens The Body

Freshmen and sophomores find physical education classes a good way to use up extra energy and, at the same time, develop skills in sports. Basketball and volleyball are popular team sports offered; individual activities include tumbling and calisthenics.

Health, a required freshman course, provides the students with basic first-aid skills, knowledge of proper health habits, and an understanding of human anatomy.

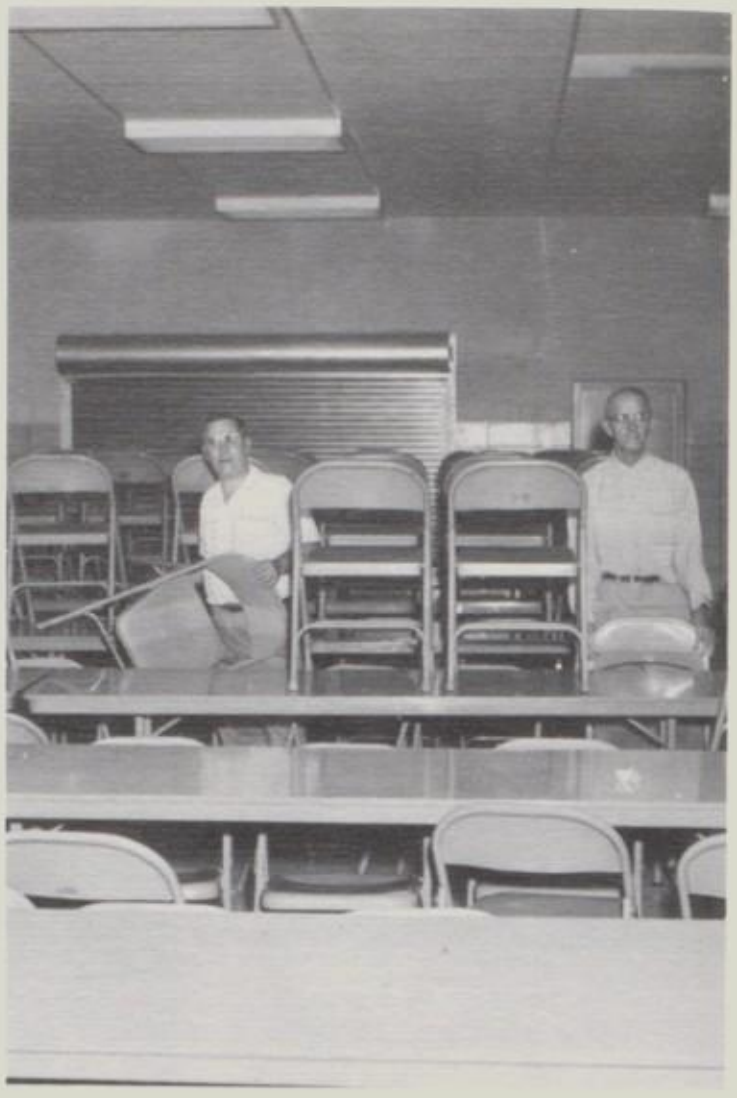
Custodians Maintain Orderliness And Repair Of School Facilities

Custodians are Kenneth Willaman, Arnold Willaman, Carl Carlson, Lowell Kreiner, Robert Stahlheber, and Dick Miller.

Arnold Willaman and Kenneth Willaman devote much of their time working in the cafeteria.



The daily job of a custodian is sweeping halls.

Sweeping the long hallways, scrubbing the cafeteria floors, and cleaning up after basketball games are the jobs of the custodians. Only men with true dedication would begin the day early and end it late, as the custodians must do to maintain the orderliness of the school.

Transportation to and from school is provided by the bus drivers, who assume responsibility for the safety of all the students who ride buses.

The cooks work long and hard to prepare enough food for lines of hungry students. With four lunch lines and four lunch periods, the cooks have had to solve many problems that have occurred in planning and serving the day's meal.

Driving the school busses this year are Vic Horning, Helen Rudersmith, Alden Warfield, Dorothy Mortimer, and Blain Warner.

Ready for the arrival of hungry students are Annabelle Brown, Dorothy Randall, and Ruth Stayer.

Helping to transport children to school are Pearle Levengood, Zelma Gross, Iona Allen, Shirley Garber, and Jack Reifsnyder.

Preparing the day's lunch are Dorothy Ditch, Janet Smith, Lucy Martz, Wilma Fischer, and Betty Willaman.

Seniors Review Achievements

As seniors at the end of our high school experience, we look back on the experiences and accomplishments of the past four years. We think of the activities—the sports, club meetings, the proms. We remember the hard work and study and look with pride at the achievements of our class's young scientists, artists, athletes, musicians, and civic leaders. And, most of all, we remember the people—the teachers who have guided and inspired us, and the friends whose ways will soon part.

But memories of the past are overshadowed by the challenges and responsibilities of the future. "Today we follow; tomorrow we lead." At graduation, today becomes yesterday, and the future presses upon us. It is the hope that every member of the class of 1967 will accept his challenges and responsibilities and leave his footprints in the sands of time.

Juniors Excel In Varied Areas Of Participation

In September the Class of '68 returned to Hoover anticipating a year that would be built upon hard work and good times.

Throughout this year many of our classmates have displayed outstanding scholastic ability which is exemplified by the fact that many juniors ranked high in scholarship tests and in tests given on a national basis.

The junior class has produced many fine athletes who have earned recognition for their commendable efforts and achievements.

The numerous talents in our class were merged to design the annual Junior-Senior Prom. Cooperation and strenuous work molded the Prom into the final product. Enthusiasm such as this made the Prom a memorable occasion.

Our year as juniors has been full of wonderful experiences and great rewards. We are now looking forward to our senior year, treasuring the memories we have had in the past.

Sue Hargrove
Junior Class Historian

Sophomores Acquire Knowledge And Experience For The Future

Sophomore class advisers Mr. Trott, Mr. Dent, Mr. Gross, Mr. McDowell, Mr. Healey, Mr. Marchand, Mr. Gray, Mrs. Griel, Mrs. Marquardt, Mr. Barrett.

The sophomore class of 1966-67 found, at the beginning of this school year, many new challenges along with the familiar ones faced the previous year. New teachers with their individual demands and completely different courses, such as biology, were major concerns to which all had to adjust.

"Soph" in the word sophomore means wisdom, and obtaining wisdom is surely one of our chief goals. We wish to prepare ourselves as best as possible for the complex and rapidly growing world that we soon must face.

Freshmen Are Confronted With New Challenges And Opportunities.

"V-I-C-T-O-R-Y is the freshman battle cry!" When the "frosh" attempted this at the first pep rally, its meaning was not clear. But as the year passed, we began to feel like a significant part of student life.

Filled with excitement, doubt, and a great desire to do our best, we hit Hoover with 363 strong, one of the largest classes ever. As we look with anticipation to the next three years, the class of '70 plans to keep the scholastic record high and the extracurricular activities going strong.

We are proud to be a part of the friendly atmosphere that we have found at Hoover.

ected Members Represent Student Opinions At Council Meetings

Student Council officers are President, John Kelly; Secretary, Ann Tillitski, Vice-President, Carter Brown; and Treasurer, Karen Aldridge. They preside over Student Council meetings.

Homerooms elected student council representatives and alternates to act as the students' governing body.

The Student Council selected the assembly programs, sponsored the annual Homecoming dance, supervised the election of cheerleaders, and initiated many school policies.

Booster Club Promotes Pep At School Activities

The Booster Club with its vast membership seeks to promote spirit at school events.

This year the Booster Club sold tags for the football games, sponsored the annual Booster Club Dance, held the Homecoming game bonfire, organized car caravans, and sponsored buses to games.

The biggest project the Booster Club tackled was the organization of a Pep Club for the basketball season.

At the head of the Booster Club were Jim Braucher, boys' president; Nan Carle; Secretary-treasurer, Miss Bunker, adviser; Marcia Adams, girls' president; Pete Cain, vice-president.

The Booster Club helps promote team spirit with the Pep section at games.

Boosters are ready to travel to an away basketball game.

Future Nurses Club Encourages Careers In Medicine

The Future Nurses Club offers an excellent introduction to a career in nursing. After hearing various speakers and working in several service projects, members have an idea of what it means to experience the rewarding feeling of being able to help people.

Club Activities Center On Aspects Of Teaching Profession

The Future Teachers Club provides an opportunity for students to learn more about the teaching profession. The Club has attended a school Board meeting and has, throughout the year, heard speakers from various fields of education.

Students gained practical experience in education when the club sponsored its annual Teaching Career Month program. Through this program members gained realistic insight into teaching by helping a teacher grade papers and doing other odd jobs.

Future Secretaries Exercise Skills Required For Their Future

Commercial students are given the opportunity to learn practical skills of the business world through membership in the Future Secretaries Club. Speakers from various areas of business spoke to the girls during the year. They helped describe some of the many secretarial jobs available. Throughout the year the girls were introduced to many exciting careers.

Future secretaries officers Mary Warth, Beverly Lidderdale, Gail McMillian, Carol McLeod, and Glenda Mullins work hard to prepare interesting club meetings.

Paula Dickerson and Carla Joliat maintain the greenhouse for the biology students.

The biology laboratory classes are greatly helped through the work of the biology lab assistants. These people work hard to keep the laboratory and its equipment in good condition for the biology students. They prepare cultures, wash the glassware, run errands, and keep the greenhouse in order. Through their services, the study of biology is made easier and much more pleasant.

Homemakers Train For Future

The Home Economics Club provides future homemakers with many of the highlights of homemaking that are not discussed in the classroom. Working on projects and hearing various speakers made meetings interesting for the girls. Various speakers included Mrs. Ethel Reifsnyder who spoke on one of her many hobbies, ceramics. Throughout the year valuable experiences are learned that will be used in future years.

Home Economics Club members raptly watch Mrs. Reifsnyder at a club meeting.

GAA Plans Girls' Athletic Play

Leadership and sportsmanlike conduct are the main goals of the Girls' Activities Association. Here, girls actively participate in the sports which they enjoy most. The many opportunities for working with others in the GAA intramural program help perpare girls for dealing with people in adult life.

Some of the exciting highlights of the year included volleyball, basketball, and kickball tournaments. Parents participated in the Mother-Daughter Banquet and the Dad-Daughter Date Night. Also special activities of swimming, ice skating, Christmas caroling, and bowling offered added opportunity for enduring friendships.

Clubs Explore Foreign Cultures

The French and Latin Clubs, newly organized this year, give students an opportunity to receive greater background knowledge of their respective languages.

The French Club's activities included slides of Europe and competition in the Malone College Language Fair while Latin Club members saw slides of Rome and gained an insight of the culture of Julius Caesar and the Roman Empire.

Students Extend Numerical Study

Cindy Howes, David Miner, Jim Kintz, and Doug Rife discuss aspects of math in order to prepare interesting Math Club meetings.

A group of math lovers congregate.

Students are given a much broader view of the world of numbers through membership in the Math Club. Speakers, lectures, and field trips provide new information on various aspects of mathematics. One of the highlights of the year came in February when they met with the Glenwood Math Club to hear Professor Kenneth Cummings of Kent State University. Also, Hoover's own Mr. Don Miller talked to them on "Graphing on the Graveyard Shift."

Print Club Utilizes Members' Skill

The print club gave interested students the opportunity to increase their ability in the field of graphic arts. The project in which the club was involved included the printing of Christmas cards, memo pads, and assignment pads. The profits from the sales were used to buy equipment for both classes and the club. The club also printed brochures explaining the operations of the machines for the graphic arts fair.

Aside from its projects, the club heard a speech by Mr. Lynch, a salesman from A.B. Dick Machinery. He spoke about various types of printing machines. The club also visited the presses of The Sun.

Print Club members discuss future projects at a business meeting.

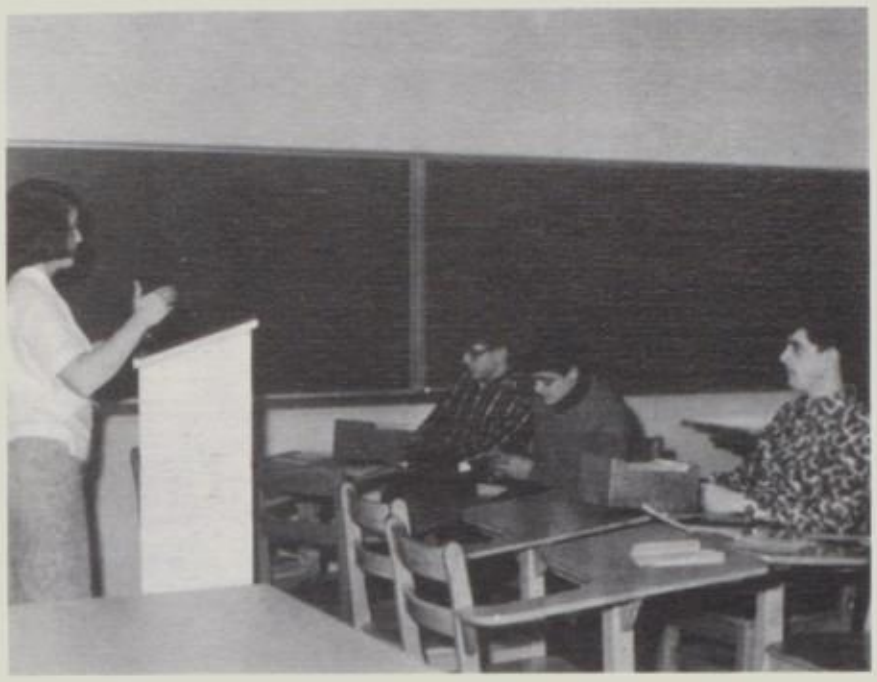
Thespians Foster Dramatic Spirit

The Thespians' Society, advised by Mr. Rex Spalding, offers the students of Hoover the opportunity to learn many aspects of dramatics, such as costuming, scenery, make-up and acting. Throughout the year the club attends area plays to observe dramatic skills. The techniques of acting and also the role of production are learned through actual experience by the presentation of a play.

"But I know. It was that big."

Peg Golloway and Jim Burnett, Thespian Society officers, discuss possibilities for a one-act play.

NFL Perfects The Ability To Speak Effectively



"We the affirmative" are the common words spoken by Nancy Spencer in a first affirmative speech as Don Green, Dave Green, and Vince Sturiale listen.

Being a member of the National Forensic League can be a rewarding experience in student life. The adviser, Mr. Jesse McDowell, instructed members in the aspects of debate, original oratory, extemporaneous speaking, oratory, and humorous and dramatic declamations.

This year's debate topic was "Resolved: that the foreign aid program of the United States be limited to nonmilitary assistance."

To become a member of National Honor Society is described as the highest honor a high school student may receive. Character, scholarship, leadership and service are the qualities upon which eligible students are judged by the faculty.

Each spring, previous members organize the induction ceremony with their adviser, Mrs. Jean Arndt. This year the speaker for the ceremony was Judge John Milligan. He spoke on "The Role of Youth in the Changing World."

Inductees of the National Honor Society hold lighted candles as they recite the pledge of the organization.

Joyce Jordan, inductee, is escorted to the front of the gymnasium by National Honor Society member, Bruce Woodside.

Jeff Mylett qualified for state competition in dramatic interpretation.

Outstanding Students Given Recognition In Chosen Fields

Each year, outstanding students at Hoover compete among themselves for a position on our scholarship team. This competition begins with a preliminary exam to all who are interested in becoming a member of the team. It ends with an elimination exam from which the top three students are selected. These three students from each scholastic area then travel to Malone for district competition, where high-scoring students are eligible for state competition.

Students Singled Out For Individual Laurels

Any interested junior may compete in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Tests given at Hoover each spring. Highest scoring students then become semifinalists and are eligible for finalist competition and possible scholarships.

National Merit semi-finalists this year were Phyllis Lindenberger, Dave Earl, and Jennifer Mylett.

Delegates are chosen each year to represent the senior class in mock government. The girls chosen went to Capitol University, and the boys to Ohio University. Each group established their own governmental system on the local, county, and state basis.

Hoover's Girls' and Boys' State representatives were Jennifer Mylett, Fred Ross, Karen Aldridge, Don Green, and Nancy Spencer.

Homecoming Includes Varied Activities

The 1966 Homecoming weekend festivites began Friday, Oct. 21, with a parade from the high school to the stadium. The cheerleaders led the parade, followed by the marching band. The queen and her court rode in convertibles.

Heavenly Splendor Adorns Gym For Junior-Senior Prom

"I've Got a Date With an Angel" proved to be a fitting theme for one of the prettiest proms ever held at our school. Clouds, angels, and stars made a heaven for all the guests.

As the guests arrived, they walked through the garden of Eden before entering the heaven-made auditorium. An angel seated on a quarter-moon greeted the guests as they entered.

Miss Barbara Hilscher reigned as queen. Her whole Court added radiance to the heavenly setting. They were seniors Cindy Corbett and Susan Kindsvater, and juniors Marcia Adams and Jean Eckstein. A castle in the sky was the setting for the court.

Music for the festive evening was provided by the Glenwood Dance Band. It was truly a dance to remember!

Students Train Both As Showmen And Musicians

Band members anxiously await the start of pre-game ceremonies.

During the season the marching band presented a variety of half-time shows. Some featured different sections of the band such as the brass, percussion, and the majorettes. Others were based on precision drills. The music varied from the modern sounds of the Tijuana Brass and the "Sound of Music" to snappy marches. Again the band participated in the annual Hall of Fame Parade.

The concert band worked hard preparing for two concerts, the "Thank-you" concert and the Spring Concert. The band was invited to Glenwood High School to participate in the Band-in-the-Round program with three other area bands.

Through the year the A'Cappella Choir rehearsed diligently under Mr. Martin Alexander's direction, to prefect the many choral programs they gave. In November and December the choir presented their annual holiday programs. The Christmas program, highlighted by Joseph Clokey's cantata "When the Christ Child Came", featured soloists Peg Golloway and Holly Cady, sopranos; Jennifer Mylett, alto; and Bill Ginther, baritone.

With the new year, the choir tackled contest music. Shortly after returning from district contest at Jackson High School, the vocalists began their homestretch preparation for the Spring Sing.

The Hi-Lows, a select group of 16 voices, sang during the year for many church and service organizations earning funds for the music association. The ensemble divided into two octets to compete in contest.

Female Choral Groups Combine For Enjoyable Performances

Although the Sophomore Glee Club and the Junior-Senior Glee Club rehearsed at different times, the two groups performed as one. Their first performance at Christmas was a joint concert with the A Cappella choir.

The Glee Club perfected three numbers, including Chant of Glory and Praise, by Rogers, for choir contest, March 18. Their final performance was the annual Spring Sing.

The Vikettes, a group of nine select voices, sang for several organizations. They also worked on von William's Sweet Day to perform at the music contest at Hoover on March 4.

VIKETTES: L. Malthouse, P. Smith, L. Hoover, C. Hudak, S. Smith, J. Dupont, T. Sogan. A. King and C. Kelley were absent when the picture was taken.

Contestants Display Talents

Mr. Hafer, the district chairman of the Solo and Ensemble Contest, devoted many hours towards making it possible. He had to engage judges and send applications to all area directors. His biggest task was trying to schedule over 2000 instrumental and vocal events for March 4.

Band and choir members were assigned to assist judges, work in the office, sell medals, and serve as guides during the busy day. Parents in the Music Association served food in the cafeteria and the snack bar.

Victory Is The Rewarding Result Of Much Practice And

The 1966 Viking football team put together a seasonal record of 7-3. Although the team was young, its teamwork and desire to play brought it success.

Tri-captains Jim Braucher, Denny Kolp, and Bob Mallard led the team on the field. Senior linemen who gave them support were Paul Billman, Al Machamer, John Romeo, Dan Slusser, Jeff Southworth, and Scott Sturtz. Senior backfield men were Bill Embly, Mark Stock, and Mike Wilson. Also giving the captains support were juniors Ron Ellis, Jim Gilpatrick, Tom McDonald, Steve Pool, and Darrel Powell. Rounding out the squad, two promising sophomores, Hank Escola and Bill Trumpeter, did a fine job for the Vikings this year.

The Vikings started the season with four wins. After a let-down in mid-season, they returned to win three games, including a 20 to 14 win over Jackson.

Viking defense holds again.

On Aug. 19, the boys who wanted to play football gathered at the stadium to receive their equipment. For the next two weeks, they prepared themselves physically and mentally for the coming season. While they prepared themselves, Mr. Dick Miller, the grounds keeper, prepared the stadium for the crowds.

Finally, the season began and the team played the first game on the home field. Every Friday night for the next 10 weeks, the team was engaged in physical contact. The goal of victory was ever present.

All too quickly, the season ended, and the members of the team were no longer working together as a unit, but were moving on to reach new individual goals.

The strategy for each varsity game was the result of a week of thorough planning. Each week, films of the game were taken. The following Monday, the films were studied by both the coaches and players. From these, they could determine their mistakes and make adjustments for the next week.

On Tuesday, the offensive attack was thoroughly planned and practiced against a defense similar to that of the week's opponent. Wednesday was a day of adjusting the defense to stop the varying offensive formations of the opponent. Short workout sessions characterized the Thursday practices. The following evening, the strategy was put to the test as the team encountered various opponents.

The Viking Reserves compiled a season record of 6-1-1. The squad displayed an explosive offense along with a stiff defense. Credit for this success is due to Mr. Walter Tolarchyk and Mr. William Dieringer. Both are new coaches to the team this year.

Quarterbacks Greg Brown and Lee Erdman were the pilots of the offensive attack. Support of linemen Roy Blair, Chuck Caniford, Tom Joseph, Doug Mohler, Mark Peters, Brian Preda, and Tom Skirtech was a key in this attack. Ends Steve Edwards and Ray Sole handled the pass receiving. The other backfield positions were held by Bob Dewey, Mike Romeo, Gary Schoeppner, Mike Sweeney, and Lee Zwick.

Close Margins of Defeat Ruin Chances For Winning Season

The 1966-67 Viking basketball team finished its season with a 5-13 record. Despite the losses, the season had its rewarding moments. The cagers won exciting games over Lake, Marlington, and arch-rival Louisville but a come-from-behind victory over highly-touted Glenwood was the highlight of the season.

Seniors John Healey and Randy Rose led the team in scoring while John Kelly, Jeff Southworth, and Mike Wilson were rebounding standouts. Three year letterman Bob Mallard sparked the team on defense. The varsity squad was ably coached by second year coach Mr. Tom Healey and assistant coach, Mr. Dan Tilton.

The Freshman basketball team, coached by Mr. James Boyer, posted a very fine seasonal record of 11-6. These boys proved to be very coachable and the height of the squad is a welcome addition to Hoover basketball. With Randy Carlson leading the way in scoring and height, and four of five starters over six feet, the future of Viking basketball should be bright.

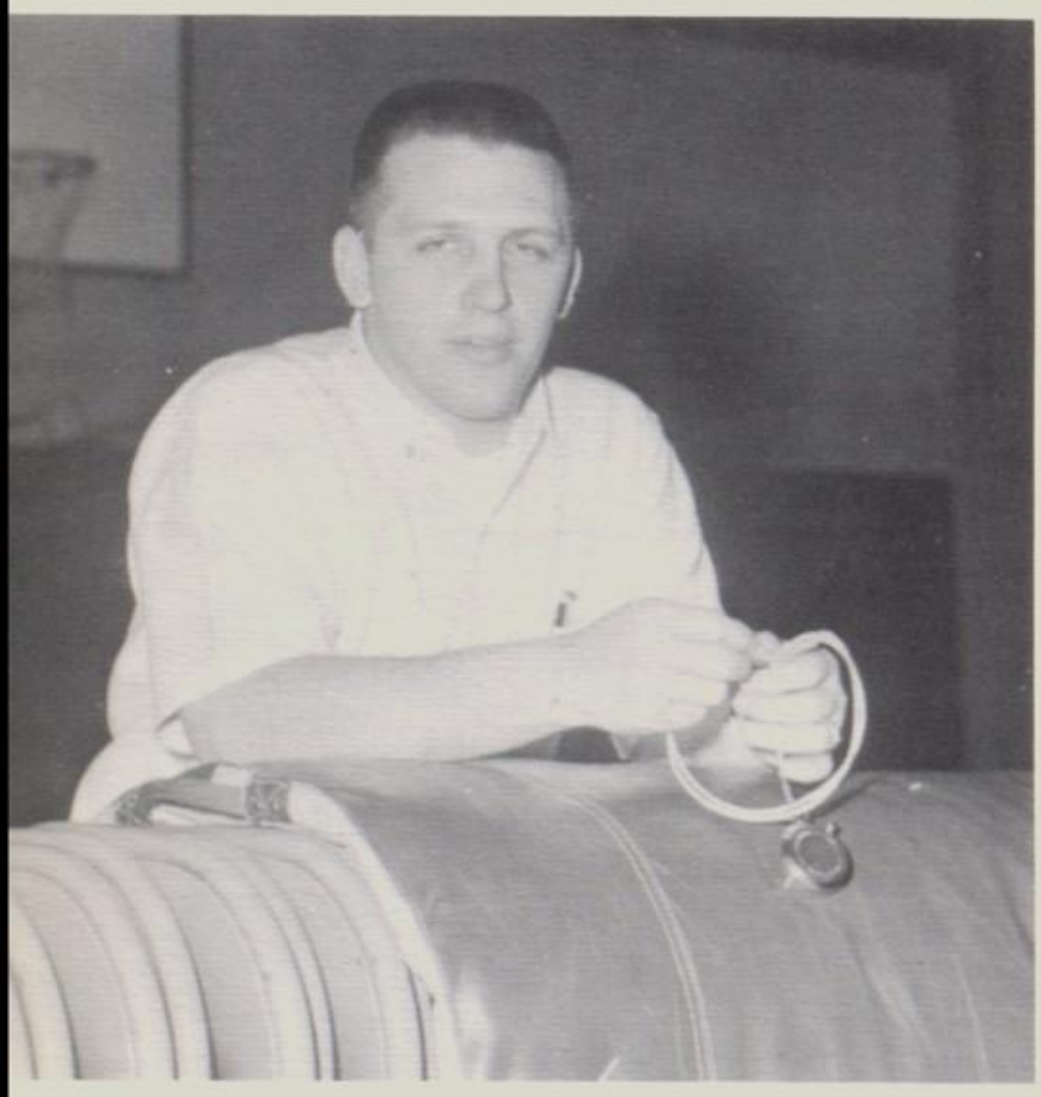
New Coach Leads Wrestlers To Another Victory Season

Mr. Tolarchyk was the new wrestling coach this year.



The Viking grapplers under the coaching of Mr. Walter Tolarchyk, finished the season with a record of 7-3. The team consisted of two seniors, four juniors, and six sophomores. Despite the lack of upperclassmen, the team showed a tremendous amount of ability.

Leading the team to victory were Randy McFarren, Ron Ellis, Bill Spencer, Larry Sluss, and Bill Parker.

Hoover took the sectional title at Massillon with 66 points. Eight wrestlers advanced to district competition at Kent Roosevelt. One wrestler, Bill Spencer, then advanced to the state meet in Columbus.

Mat Competition Demands Strength And Endurance

McFarren works for a pin.

Excitement is the best way to describe a wrestling match. For this reason, the season attendance has been increasing annually for the last few years and it is fast becoming a major sport at Hoover due to its annual success.

Wrestling is a team sport, but individual ability plays an important role. Often, the individual match brings the decisive points for a victory. The pictures on this page demonstrate the various aspects of the sport of wrestling.

Matmen Look Good For Future

The Reserve wrestling team wrapped up the season with a 10-1 record. The two most important matches were a near perfect 53-0 victory over arch rival Glenwood and a 22-21 victory over strong Cuyahoga Falls.

Leading the Reserves were Brian Woodside (103), Dave Ziroff (112), Gary Hatt (127), Tim Wolfe (133), and Hank Escola (154). Mr. Roger Viscounte supplied the experience and coaching ability for the team.

The major interest of the 1966 baseball team was to rebuild their bullpen strength. Under the coaching of Mr. Don Hertler they did so and finished the season with no seniors on the pitching staff. Their season record was 7-6 but this does not relate the whole story. Many of their defeats were by one or two run margins. The high point of the season came with a near perfect, no-hit game pitched by Larry Grove. With games like these, he maintained an earned run average of 0.00.

The 1966 edition of the Hoover Viking track team was young, yet in some areas outstanding. Under the head coaching of Mr. Paul McDonald, they participated in only three meets. However, they did play a part in the Wooster relays and came away with the second place trophy. The most outstanding individual on the team was Barry Miller who broke the school record in the 100 yard dash. Some of the underclassmen returning this year were Jim Braucher, Carter Brown, Gary Larson, Bruce Neuman, and Greg Perez.

The 1966 golf team was quite successful on the golf circuit because they won a majority of their matches. Under the instruction of Mr. Jack Yost, the young team showed fine talent. Team members obtaining varsity letters were senior Bob Erdman; juniors Rick Anderson, Wayne Dilling, Dave Earl, and Bob Radosevic, and freshman Britt Runion. The backup men consisted of Dave DeBlander and Rocky Earl.

Tennis, under the coaching of Mr. Lawrence Marchand, was added to Hoover's sports program last spring. Although there were no regular season matches, ability was shown in the scrimmages. Due to the interest shown this year, it will continue to be one of our spring sports. Interscholastic matches will be added in the coming season to make the year more interesting.

Tennis broadens the spring sports scene.

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS. C. Harris, N. Cullen, D. Zingler, P. Toole, J. Eckstein.

Enthusiastic support was supplied by the 1966-67 cheerleading squad. This year's varsity squad consisted of Senior Jean Eckstein and Juniors Nancy Cullen, Connie Harris, Pat Toole, and Debbie Zingler. These girls, under the guidance of Mrs. Evelyn Skidmore, put much time and effort into their work.

The many posters placed in the halls were the product of these girls' work. Many humorous pep rallies also came from the imaginations of the cheerleaders. No matter what the situation, the cheerleaders were backing the team. They were behind Hoover's athletic teams in the chill of evening football games and the warmth of a gymnasium.

Also helping the varsity cheerleaders was the reserve squad. They were Marcia Martelli, a junior and Margaret Braucher, Karen Naughtrip, Denise Tinlin, and Ellen Werstler, sophomores. Completing this year's cheerleading staff are freshman Lindsay Cullen, Sue Holdren, Susie Peters, Gabie Starcher, and Nancy Zingler.

We can never catch up with tomorrow, But tomorrow sure can catch up with us!

For example, none of these products was in the Hoover line five years ago!

You're familiar with the old saying that tomorrow never comes. And this may technically be true, but in the appliance business, tomorrow does come —sure as daylight.

That's one reason why five years ago we were planning for Hoover products introduced only last year. That's why we're busy today working on products that may not be made public for another five years. In a highly competitive business like ours, if we don't plan to be ahead of tomorrow, we will be behind the eight-ball.

Such foresight is important to all Hoover Company people, and it's because their planning, production and promotions have been consistently successful that The Hoover Company has a proud past . . . and an exciting future.

THE E.W. BLISS COMPANY

Established as a press builder in 1857, the E. W. Bliss Company soon became a major supplier of metalworking presses, can-making machinery and rolling mills. While maintaining its leadership in these fields, Bliss expanded through product development and acquisition and today is equally well-known for its mill rolls, timers and counters, traffic control and alarm systems, ball valves, firefighting equipment, aircraft launching and recovery equipment, and aerospace products.

One of the 500 largest U.S. corporations, Bliss has plants operating in eleven United States cities and five other countries. Total employment approximates 6000. The company is organized into six operating groups — Rolling Mill, Press, Light Manufacturing, Defense Manufacturing, Engineering Research and Development, and International Operations.

A leading exporter, Bliss holds the President's "E" Award for excellence in that field. In addition to its offshore facilities and licensees, the company has representation in most major countries.

During the past few years, Bliss opened new manufacturing facilities in Canada, Australia, and Israel, supplementing long-established operations in France and England.

In 1965, the company's enlarged engineering research and development group moved to a new center in Swarthmore, Pa.

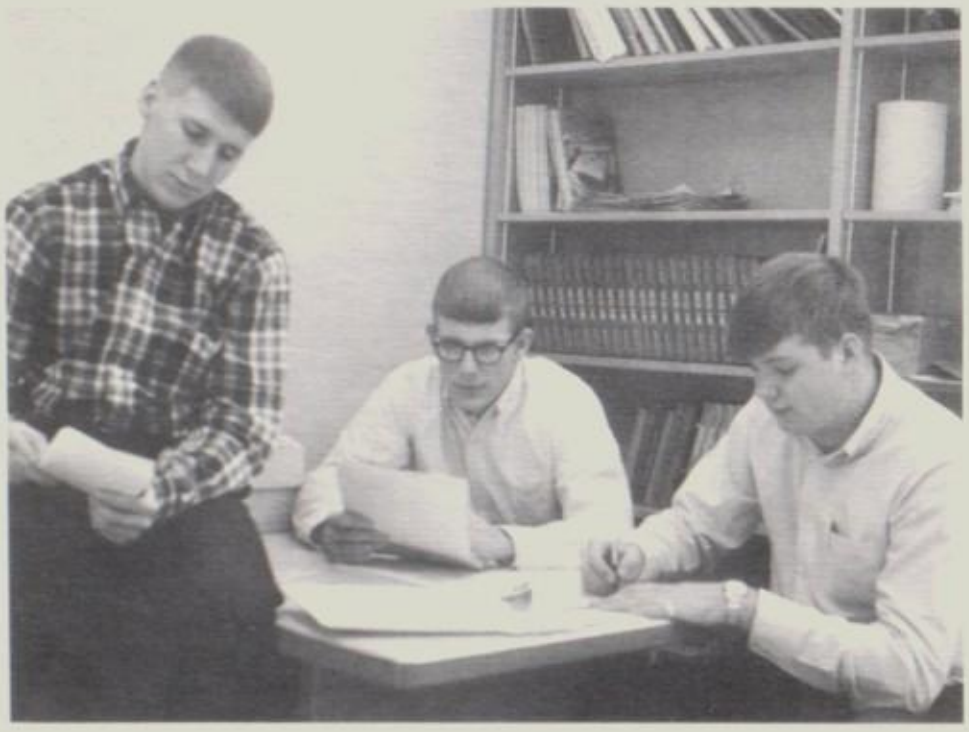
Seniors Organize To Form A Dedicated And Successful

Mrs. Knipfer advises June Wilson, editor, and Bruce Woodside, art editor.

Last spring, a group of unorganized people were informed that they were going to publish an annual. They worked through the summer, choosing a theme, learning how to use the camera, and soliciting for ads.

Finally, a year later, the staff was ready to present the 1967 Viking to the Hoover High students.

Sue Knipfer, Lynne Kidder, and Sue Wolf sift through the mounds of pictures for the class section.



Sports staff, Bob Mallard, Denny Kolp, and Greg Blue, "conjure up" more of their witty captions.

Staying after school was just part of the duties for Carol Berkebile, Sue Smith, and Lynne Trott of the activity section and Sue Shafer, music section editor.

P. Lindenberger, A. Tillitski, H. Cady, R. Ryan, B. Groshan, and J. Mylett look over pictures for the academic section.

Pecking away is a very serious Paula Dickerson who aided the other typists Peg Golloway, Laurel Hinderer, and Jean Michel.

Annual Staff

Diane Musgrave laughs at the pranks of her feature committee members, Nancy Spencer and Karen Aldridge.

R. Palmer, J. Jordan, L. Malthouse, J. Danner, M. Wild, P. Ballard, and L. Rohrer sold ads to finance the annual.

The headlines were written by Jean Eckstein, Carla Joliat, and Molly Peters.

These "Sophisticates" (except the moose) are none other than our photographers, Mark Weber, Mark Stock, and Jim Braucher.

Tory Zwick looks angry as Beth Daugherty reads a name for the index that Sandi Cross can't find.

The copyreaders, Diane Randell, Paula Leffler, Paula Dickerson, and Karen Kolp, sadly change the mistakes of the typists.

Carol Workinger is happy to hear David Acer give a good report of our financial status.

Collected for you in the 1967 edition of the Viking are all the learning, laughing, working, and achieving moments of this year. We have found, however, that we can not completely assemble these moments. It is the reader, not the writer, who makes the book. Therefore our clock recording the memories of 1967 is not complete, and will not be complete, until you, the reader, have enjoyed it and found meaning in it. This annual is yours, not ours, to assemble and enjoy.

Our appreciation and thanks go to our adviser, Mrs. Marian Knipfer, who directed the work on the annual. We are also grateful to our publishers, Consolidated Graphic Arts, our photographers, Troup and Pluto Inc., and the faculty and administration for their patience and assistance.
